Crime and Bootlegging Rampant Along San Pablo Ave.

COSTA AND MOLTOZA HELD UP BY BANDITS, $200 SECURED

PLAN OUTLINED BY HUGHES TO SECURE PEACE OF THE WORLD

Washington, D. C., November 12.—Looking to definite and immediate action toward a reduction of armament, Secretary Hughes today presented to the conference on the part of the United States a concrete proposition the gist of which is:

The United States to scrap all capital ships now under construction. This includes six battle cruisers and seven battle ships on the ways and building, and two battle ships already launched. (Note: Total amount of money already spent on capital ships $322,000,000.)

Great Britain to scrap her pre-dreadnaughts, second line battle ships and first line battleships up to but not including the King George 4th class, to stop further construction on the four new Hoods. The grand total tonnage of ships to be scrapped amounting to 583,375 tons.

Japan to abandon her program of ships not yet laid down, involving two battleships and four battle cruisers, to scrap three battle ships launched and four cruisers for which materials have been assembled, to scrap all pre-dreadnaughts and capital ships of the second line.

France and Italy—On account of extraordinary conditions due to the World War affecting these countries, proposals respecting their proportionate strength to be taken up later.

No other new capital ships to be constructed during the period of the agreement except replacement tonnage as provided as follows: Capital ships twenty years from date of completion may be replaced by new capital ship construction, but the keels of such new construction shall not be laid until the ships to be replaced are seventeen years of age, and first replacement tonnage shall not be laid down until ten years from date this agreement is signed.

No capital ships to be laid down during agreement exceeding 35,000 tons displacement each.

Total tonnage of submarines to be allowed each power shall be as follows: United States 30,000 tons; Great Britain 30,000 tons; Japan 54,000 tons.

Total carrying tonnage of aircraft to be allowed each power to be as follows: United States 30,000 tons; Great Britain 30,000 tons; Japan 43,000 tons.

The powers party to the agreement bind themselves not to dispose of combatant vessels of any class in such a manner that they later may become combatant vessels in another navy. They bind themselves further not to acquire combatant vessels from any foreign source.

CIVIC CENTER CLUB

It is announced that there will be a meeting of the Civic Center Club at two o'clock next Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gregory, 648 First St. All members are urged to be present.

Council Will Search Today for City Dump

All citizens who have not a vital appointment somewhere else should join the group that will make a tour this afternoon in search of a suitable spot for the location of a city garbage dump. The proper disposal of garbage is a matter of deep moment to every one living in Richmond, hence Mayor Garrard urges that as many people as possible join him and the city council in their search.

Since the failure of the plan proposed here recently by J. Gale to erect a garbage incinerator, the matter has been giving the city council and the Mayor a good deal of concern, and it is hoped that the trip this afternoon will furnish a temporary solution at least.

The city has for a year now been promising Blake Bros., who own the present garbage site, that a new dump would be found, and it is becoming imperative that a solution of the problem be reached at the earliest possible date. The old garbage dump is filled and cannot much longer be used, but the selection of a new site presents many difficulties.

Miss Marie Osborne has suggested the Los Angeles plan, which calls for segregation of swill, from cans, paper and other refuse which can be burned or sold, and which permits the sale of swill to hog ranches, thus eliminating the necessity of either a garbage dump or an incinerator. Residents of the west side and members of the West Side Improvement Club propose to join the party. The West Side is making a determined fight against location of the new dump in that portion of the city, and will point out to the council tomorrow its objections to the East Richmond Ave. site, and other proposed sites at the Point.

The meeting place is the Washington school, and the time set is 2 P. M.

Moose Drill Team Will Hold Whist Party December 5

The drill team of the Richmond lodge of Moose, which attracted so much favorable comment in the Armistice day parade are planning a big whist event to be held at the lodge hall on the evening of December 5th. It is understood that the first prize will be a beautiful 50 piece dinner set. Other prizes will be pairs of shoes valued at $12.00, $10.00 and $8.00 respectively. A committee composed of Robert Connolly, George Parnell, J. E. Davis and D. Andrews is in charge of the affair.

All the members of the lodge are putting their shoulders to the wheel to make it a big success.

MORE CARRIER BOYS WANTED

Record-Herald

CAR TAKEN BY FOOTPADS IS DISCOVERED ON STOCKTON ST.

Another of those hold-ups for which the region between the county line and San Pablo is becoming famous, took place early last evening, when A. S. Costa, proprietor of a grocery store at San Pablo and John E. Moltoza were held up by two bandits just north of the bridge over San Pablo creek and Costa was relieved of $200 in currency that he had on him. No money was secured from Moltoza, as he takes the precaution to carry but little on his person.

Both of the men were taken to Giant, where they were dumped out on the road and the bandits, with Costa's car, turned round and headed back for San Pablo. Later in the evening the car was found wrecked on Stockton street.

Shortly after supper Costa in his Ford touring car was on his way to take Moltoza to his home in the vicinity of the Western Porcelain company, about a mile the other side of San Pablo, and just as they crossed the San Pablo creek bridge two men jumped out of the bushes at the side of the road, leaped on the running boards, and thrusting revolvers in the faces of the two men, ordered "hands up". The command was promptly complied with.

The bandits got in the rear seat of the auto and holding their guns against the backs of the two men forced Costa to drive to a point near Giant, where they were forced to get out, and a thorough search of their clothes was made. From Costa they secured $200, but from Moltoza they got nothing.

Taking Costa's car, the men turned round, and headed back in the direction of San Pablo. An attempt was made to leave the highway at Stockton street, and reach Twenty-third by means of the cut-off, which is now being constructed but the bandit had a collision with a road scraper that was standing in the road, the Ford was wrecked, and the windshield broken.

Later on in the evening the car was found deserted on Stockton street but the bandits had disappeared.

A small boy who resides in the neighborhood, saw the collision, and there was only one man in it at the time, but in a moment a second car showed up, and the bandit leaped into it, and was whisked away.

It is very evident from the facts that have been gathered that the bandits had an automobile of their own, and had left it hidden on a side road, ready for their getaway, after the robbery.

Money Needed to Carry Work of Red Cross

The American people need no reminder of their debt to the Red Cross. But a reminder is needed now and then that an installment on that debt is due. The Greatest Mother in the World cannot carry out her work of mercy without funds. Whoever you are, wherever you live you are directly or indirectly under some obligation to this benevolent institution. Pay something on that obligation at once. Get your Red Cross button, put the poster up in your window and see if you don't feel that warmth inside that comes of a worthy action.

The agents of the Red Cross in the Richmond business district are in charge of F. B. Ladd and Harry Marcus who have divided the work among the business men, but they cannot possibly see everyone. Your subscription will be taken at either of the La Moine drug stores, the Matron candy stores, at the Big Store, at Burg Bros., or at Red Cross headquarters in the Contra Costa Realty office. Drop in at one of these places Monday morning and do your part.

Retail Clerks to Hold Their Annual Convention Today

The annual convention of the Retail Clerks of California, Arizona, and Nevada will be held in Oakland at ten o'clock this morning. The assembly will be in the Retail Clerks Hall at 1110 Broadway and is expected to be well attended.

The following representatives from Richmond will be on hand: Stella Adair, Cecil Berry, Daisy Moore, Elsie Bloomquist, George F. Black, and O. H. Renne.

Window Display of Babyland Is Very Instructive

An interesting and valuable feature of the Metropolitan Life Insurance exhibit being held at Babyland is the particular attention being paid to child welfare and hygiene. Booklets are given free to parents and a physician is in attendance daily from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. The exhibit is open each night until nine o'clock and is well worth a visit.

Crockett Woman Passes Away in City of Albany

Last evening at her home at 960 Ventura street in Berkeley, Mrs. Hattie M. Crockett passed away at the age of 68 years. The funeral will be held next Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the Northside Community church.

For many years deceased was a resident of Crockett, and was very active in religious circles. Deceased was the wife of T. A. Crockett, mother of Lieutenant Almon T. Crockett, of Baltimore, Md., and sister of Charles H. Herman of Berkeley, and the late Mrs. E. S. Doud, and Sarah E. Smith. The remains are at the Curry undertaking parlors.

CITIZENS MAY TAKE ACTION TO ELIMINATE MANY JOINTS

Crime and bootlegging along San Pablo avenue, all the way from the county line to a point beyond the town of San Pablo, is rampant, and there does not seem to be anything being done by the officers to put a stop to it. From all the reports that are being made, it does not seem possible that the peace officers can be ignorant of the situation.

Places in the district above mentioned, that have been vacant for a long time have been refitted and made habitable and are ostensibly operating as soft drink parlors, but the booze that you get in there is the worst possible grade of liquor, and is just as apt to poison a person as it is to set him crazy. The number of holdups that have taken place in El Cerrito and San Pablo have become so alarming that citizens have reached the point they are afraid to leave their homes in the evening unless they go heavily armed.

One well informed citizen of El Cerrito informed a Record-Herald representative last evening that from the county line to Macdonald avenue there were twenty-two bootlegging joints operating.

A San Pablo resident a short time afterwards informed this paper that in the town of San Pablo and along Market street, as far west as the San Pablo depot, there were twelve of these dumps playing their vicious trade, and that visitors could have anything they desired from any kind of booze to women, and various forms of gambling.

The decent people of San Pablo and of El Cerrito are becoming aroused over the conditions of affairs, and some of them have been so bold as to declare that unless the law is enforced, and the places closed up, that a torch would probably be applied some night, and in addition, tar and feathers might be copiously used.

Never in the history of the county have things been so wide open, and the law so flagrantly violated as at the present time.

The big night at these joints is Saturday, and in the early hours of the morning young men and women, and old men and women can be seen coming from these places in a beastly state of

Big Carnival of Auxiliary Ends in Blaze Success

The last handful of confetti has been thrown, the last peanut has been eaten, the last reluctant foot has been withdrawn from the dance floor, nearly all the contents of the booths have been disposed of, the famous Kangaroo court is a memory, and the tired ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary, who so ably managed the carnival at the Richmond Club House are resting themselves and counting the hard earned but ample profits.

The carnival was a great success. Though it was a little slow getting under way the first night, it was very shortly in high gear and running like a six cylinder roadster on a down grade. Everyone who went there even those reluctant ones who were dragged ignominiously through the streets in the patrol, had a good time and apparently every visitor left a bit of money behind for the good cause. All the booths were well patronized, some of them were even hard put to it to keep stock on their shelves, and the dance floor was filled to capacity constantly. There may have been better carnivals held elsewhere at some time or other but we don't believe it.

Intoxication.
The one question everyone is asking is "How much longer will these joints be permitted to operate before action is taken, either by officers of the law or by the citizens themselves."

FINGER PRINTS WILL FIGURE VERY STRONG IN COURT CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—Finger prints will figure prominently in the Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle case, according to developments here today. It is understood that C. O. Heinrich, a finger print expert of Berkeley, has been retained by District Attorney Brady, and that he has made a careful examination of the hotel suite and particularly of the room in which Arbuckle and Virginia Rappe were locked, and in which it is alleged to have occurred the injury to the girl which led to her death. Just what evidence has been adduced by Heinrich could not be learned.

The stage is all set for the trial and Brady announced today that the prosecution had summoned twenty-five witnesses and experts to present its evidence against Arbuckle in a manner to convince any jury of his responsibility for the death of Virginia Rappe.

THINKOGRAPHS by F. J. HULANISKI

SUNDAY MORNING CHATS

This scribe has a happy faculty, or disagreeable habit, which ever it may be, of blurring out the truth in large chunks at times, upon most any old occasion, and frequently people sort of gasp and look upon us as a sort of freak. This is because people are in the habit of thinking the truth but saying other things. They are afraid to say what they really think, for fear it will offend somebody's toes, or hurt their business, or lose a four-bit sale, or something. We notice, however, that whenever we happen to chop out a real solid chunk of truth it is only a few weeks, and often only a few days, until some big writer or big statesman shows up with a line talk along the same lines. People went home from the Armistice day celebration and read our article on all that sort of thing being an empty honor when it was not backed up by real deeds, and that our country had better do something for the living as well as make so much fuss and noise about the dead. Some thought the article was good and timely, others thought it sort of sacrilegious, at the time and under the circumstances, but he that as it may it was the truth, and now comes big men and big writers saying pretty much the same thing. Arthur Brisbane writes in all the Hearst papers: "The unknown soldier dead is buried with becoming solemnity; let us hope the lesson he teaches will not be forgotten as quickly as were his living comrades. To them much was promised but nothing done." Then we note in the speech of Governor General Byng of Canada, the following: "Honor the dead by helping the living." That short sentence says what we took a column to say. In course of two weeks, after these kind of speeches and editorials become known over the country, you will hear a number of Congressmen and Senators, who have their ears to the ground, making speeches to the same effect, and maybe some good will come of it all. We hope so.

The armistice, or disarmament, conference got into session in Washington yesterday, and in another few days will get down to business on this most important matter of modern years. In Washington, New York and all over the country today the churches will echo with the prayers of the people and the sermons of the ministers, asking divine help in settling this horrible war problem in the right way. We asked you, Friend Reader, in this paper last Sunday to pray for the success of this great and vital meeting, and ask you again today to do the same. "Probably the Lord will be much surprised to hear some of you old sinners pray, but go ahead, anyhow. It won't do a bit of harm and it may do a lot of good. When you have wronged a neighbor and called him some sort of ornary name, and then later on got to thinking it over and were ashamed for acting that way, and went over to him like a man and said: "Bill, old top, I'm sorry I acted that way, and if you will overlook it and forget it I'll try to be more decent in future, why, you and he shake hands, and have a smoke together, and you both feel better, and you go home resolved to do and be better. Ain't that so? You know it is. Well, then, that's the way it is about praying. If you say, "Lord, I know I have been an ornary bass and I'm sorry, and I'll try to do better if you will help me, and overlook the time I took two-bits out of the collection plate instead of putting one in, and I hope you will also intercede now with all the big-men of the nations, and cause them to do better, and to realize that it is better to help their fellow man instead of butchering him in cold blood like savages do," you will at least feel that way about it yourself, and it ain't a bad bet, but what the Lord will do something about it. Try it today and see, it is a good experiment. With some of you it would be like the old toper who took a drink of water—it surprised his stomach like everything, but pretty soon it cooled off his hot coppers and caused him to remark that, after all, water taken in moderation, was not so bad.

It has been suggested by someone, and wisely, we think, that our nation say, in effect, to the other members of this armistice conference: "Your nations owe us ten thousand million dollars, upon which the interest alone now amounts to another thousand millions. You hint that you would like us to cancel that vast debt and make you a present of it, but we will do nothing of the kind. It is a war expense, and the more heavy war expenses you have to pay the less liable and keen you will be to incur more. Say this debt, and it will help to make you understand that war is an expensive business which you cannot afford. If you cannot beat a little common sense into your heads in another way we will try to do it through your pocketbooks." That is exactly what ought to be said to them, and if we had the saying of it we would not waste much time about it with diplomatic language, either. Nothing on earth will make those ducks understand they must quit war but the taking away from them of their money, and all that they buy with money. An empty stomach is often the best kind of teacher.

We are looking to this conference now commenced to at least make a beginning of the time we hope to see at least a little of before our life ends, and that is a universal friendliness, instead of a universal hatred. It will take generations to bring this about, but we of this generation, let us hope, can at least make the start. No social growth and healthful prosperity can ever come out on hate. National or other grudges in the blood of the body politic break out sooner or later into pustules of revolution and war. The narrow minded in Germany who preach hatred of France, and those of France who preach hatred of Germany, and those in this country who seek to create hatred of Great Britain and Japan are alike in being such postulates. Their doctrines breed Socialism, Bolshevism, Anarchy and assassination. Among our worst enemies are those of our own countrymen who, often in the guise of patriotism, preach the dark propaganda of hate and suspicion toward other peoples.

And still speaking of this great and momentous conference now in session, we hope every member of it will get the current number of the Literary Digest and look it over and read it. It is the greatest arraignment against further armament we have ever seen. Every citizen in America ought to get one and study it. It shows a monster dragon eating money and people, with hundreds of us, the people carrying baskets and bags full of money to feed it, labeled taxes. Skulls litter the ground and the backs of the people carrying the taxes are bowed with burdens and poverty. Another picture shows the workman putting his earnings into one window of a bank and a long line of war officials, army officials, navy officials and the like drawing it out from another window. All of these idle and destructive agencies are drawing against the account of workers' savings, and all are saying they hope he keeps up his deposits. Another picture shows an American family of five paying its taxes in 1913; the amount is $33; the same today, wholly and totally because of war and preparations for war now going on, is $214. If you do not actually pay this tax to the government directly you do pay it indirectly, in that it is in the cost of everything you buy. The war cost the United States more than one million dollars an hour for over two years, and the expenditures of all the warring nations involved was fully ten millions. Up to the spring of 1919 the money expenditure on the war was one hundred and eighty-six billions—almost more than the human mind can grasp the significance of. Another picture in the Digest shows a large and beautiful town. It contains $600 nice homes all modern and beautified with yards, trees, flowers, etc. And this splendid town with all those fine homes cost less than the building of one battleship! Think of that. Also, the cost of one U. S. battleship would build and endow four magnificent universities, such as Princeton or the University of California, only bigger and better.

Some may say that all these bloody figures and facts do not constitute a good subject for Sunday reading, but we shall contend they do, for the reason that there can be no better Sabbath teaching than that which is for peace and home and love and prosperity, as against war with its ravages, death, wounds, poverty, heartache and living hell. If we read our bible, or go to church, or even think just a little of immortality or other holy things, we must see that in order to attain any of them we must first put goodness and love into our hearts and get rid of the hate and ferocity of such things as war. It is our duty, then, as Christian men and women to think of such things and study them, and do whatever little we each can to remedy the evils which are staggering the world under burdens impossible for the people to carry. Friday in their armistice day speeches President Harding and Governor Stephens both prayed to Almighty God for peace and for deliverance from war. Are we of Richmond greater than they? Each prayed, Pershing prayed, Lloyd George prayed. Every truly great mind prayed. Let us, then, pray this Sabbath day.

Warm Spot Is Sign of a Short Circuit

A short circuit always generates heat, and in locating trouble without instruments pass the fingers along the line until a warm spot is felt. Once it is found the system can be again put in order by insulating the exposed wires with rubber tubing or tape. But better still bring it to the Pioneer Garage 10th and Ohio.

Corey Kept Busy Selling Ford Cars

Corey, Ford dealer at El Centro, is keeping his busy place extra busy these days. He is selling cars rapidly, and taking orders for trucks, too. "We look for increasing business the rest of the year," says Corey and with shipments coming steadily will be able to deliver cars.

Thanksgiving Party Is Being Arranged by Onetah Tribe

Two big Redmen events are on the calendar for the immediate future, headed by Harold Kueffer who have charge of that tenth annual row. Wow scheduled for Thanksgiving night are as active as bees and are confident of a big attendance with the S. H. O. sign hung out early. The fifth annual live turkey whist which will be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 15th is in charge of a committee of nineteen who think that if the forty big live turkeys offered as prizes will not draw a crowd there is no use in going after it. Both events are open to the public and have always been looked forward to and hugely enjoyed. A record attendance is expected.

HERMANN SISTERS PARTY

The order of Hermann Sisters are completing plans for a goose whist party to be given at Pythian Castle Saturday evening November nineteenth. There will be a goose for every four tables and a turkey for a doo prize. There will also be a consolation prize. The committee in charge is composed of Mesdames Leur, Noid, Cardell, and Aichinger.

WEEKLY Development SECTION

Bath Tubs Made in Richmond 4 Million is Value of Output

In keeping with its policy of boosting Richmond and having its citizens boost Richmond, the Record-Herald is continuing its development page every Sunday. If any citizen wishes to boost a town in the proper way, backing up his statement with truthful data, it is the best thing possible for him to know his town thoroughly—its resources, how they work and that for which they stand. Know your city as well as you do yourself is the very best asset to the booster.

Therefore, each and every citizen of Richmond may become an earnest booster, with statistics and data at their finger's end if he but read all the stories in the development page of the Record-Herald in its Sunday issue.

Through the courtesy of C. V. Cameron, factory superintendent, the writer was initiated into the details of the manufacture of bath tubs and sinks and washstands from the raw material preparation to the shipping of the finished product, at the plant of the Pacific Sanitary Manufacturing Company's plant at Fifth and Hensley street. The process and is the formula of C. V. Cameron, the factory superintendent. In this connection it is said that Mr. Cameron's formula gives the smoothest and whitest and glossiest finish in the entire United States.

The raw materials are put into vats which go into furnaces where the heat is 1700 degrees Fahrenheit. The melting process takes some few hours and when ready the material resembles molasses. Six thousand pounds of enamel is the output per twenty-four hours at the plant.

After the molten enamel is taken from the hot furnaces it is put into cold water, which crystallizes it. Taken from the water then it is put into steam drying vats and ground with balls, really big shot, which keep it clean.

The grinding of the enamel is the last process of manufacture. This powders it and it is put into a container and by force and through a sieve is sprayed onto the slush. For the most important part of making this enamel is cleanliness. Any dust is later discernible.

The packing room is the next point in the process. Here the articles are nailed into wooden crates and ready for shipment.

Seventy-two bath tubs per day is the output of the factory. However, with the sinks and wash stands the output is vastly higher and runs in many hundreds of articles put out by two shifts of workmen in every twenty-four hours.

According to Mr. Cameron the present output of the plant is two million dollars per year. The weekly pay roll amounts to eleven thousand dollars. The number of men on the pay roll numbers 225. The area covered by the plant is 80,000 square feet. The officers of the company are E. S. Wangelheim of San Francisco, president; W. Waldeck of San Francisco, vice-president; N. N. Stern, general manager, and V. C. Cameron of Richmond, superintendent of the factory. The company's general offices are in San Francisco and the principal shipping ports are to all the Pacific coast towns in the United States, to South America, to China, to Japan and to Australia.

The most important news of this article is the statement that by next June the output of the Pacific Sanitary Manufacturing company will be four million dollars; the number of men to be employed will be four hundred and fifty and the equipment of the plant will be just double what it is at present.

Running to the plant and over which all shipment is done is one thousand feet of spur tracks of the Southern Pacific Company's belt line.

Business Men Seek Avenue Locations

From one end of Macdonald avenue to the other there is not a vacant business store room, and there are parties in town every day looking for suitable business locations. Only last evening a business man from Seattle dropped into the Record-Herald office, and stated that he had been looking over Richmond and things looked good to him, and that as soon as he could find a store room, he intended to enter business here.

View showing plants of the Western Pipe and Steel Company and the Pacific Sanitary Manufacturing Company, whose products are shipped to all points of the world. The annual output of these two plants will reach many millions.

How Money Grows in Richmond

Land Value Jumps from $40 to $6,500 an Acre
 Real Estate is Its Foundation

Sixty years ago Chauncey M. Depew put $100 in a Peckskill saving bank and let it lie. By the magic of compound interest—black magic some would call it—his account now amounts to $900—Exchange.

That's wonderful, but; Had Chauncey M. Depew, or anyone else, put $100 in a lot sixty years ago in almost any of the western towns, especially in a seaport town with prospects of a railroad terminal, and let it lie, by magic of growth and development—black magic some would call it—this $100 would now be equal to $100,000 or even a million dollars and more.

No one has ever grown rich from interest on savings deposits—sixty years to make $700 on a $100 investment—think of it; most of us would have been dead before the end of that time.

More wonderful than any magic of compound interest—black magic or otherwise—is the magic increase in values of Richmond, Calif. land values.

Says John Nicholl, pioneer resident, in 1908 we asked $70 an acre for the land now known as the Nicholl Macdonald Civic Center Tract, Richmond, Calif. We were offered $40 an acre, which would amount to about $4,500 for the entire tract of about 112 acres.

Only fifteen years later (not 60 years) this same tract of land sold as a whole for the enormous sum of $725,000 which, we are informed, was the highest price ever paid for any land aggregating that many acres in any city in the United States.

Some how this same land has since sold for as high as $900 per front foot and, when Richmond has a population of from 75,000 to 100,000 (which, according to experts who have studied Richmond's marvelous growth and development and its assured future, it will reach within ten to fifteen years) it should sell

CHINITZ TO ADD SECOND STORY APARTMENTS

Max Chinitz, owner of the market building at the corner of Macdonald avenue and Eighth announces that he will at once add another story to this building. The second story will be made into apartments. The area of the building is 50 by 112 feet.

"There isn't any doubt about Richmond's rapid growth," said Chinitz in discussing his intentions to build, and the demand for apartments will grow all the time.

"Some people thought I was making a doubtful investment when I bought this corner and erected the substantial building I put on it," said Chinitz, smiling, "but I wish I had bought about four more corners at the same time and erected good buildings. Richmond is going to grow fast."

The present Chinitz building is designed to sustain three more stories and they will eventually go up.

The outlook for building next year is good. There are numerous developments that will bring in new population. Most of the local industries are getting back to a normal production.

Work on the harbor that is now assured, is expected to result in Richmond gaining some new industries next year.

Proctor & Gamble company is reported as much pleased with the harbor situation and the letting of the new contract. That company will start building in the Spring, it is now stated.

The company is negotiating for some of the silt lifted by the dredging work for filling its 56-acre. It will also put a top dressing of solid material on, this to be brought by truck from the Nicholl hills above Richmond Boulevard.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS PEOPLE LOOKING FOR LARGE ACREAGE

A big San Francisco realty firm, well known around the bay, has had representatives here recently looking over the northern section of the city with a view toward purchasing some large level acreage tract in that direction.

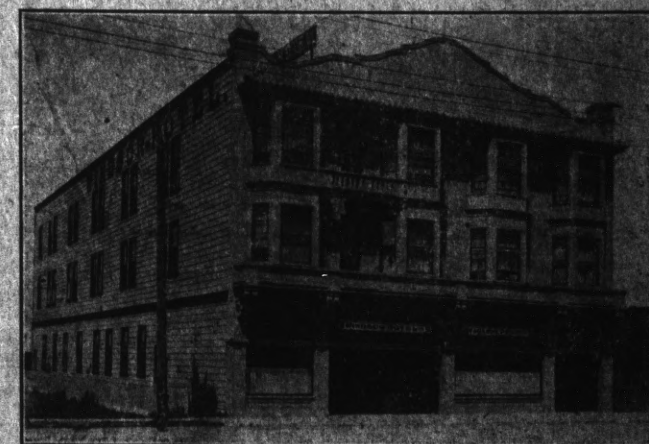

All the firm will reveal is that it has a client that wants to buy a tract and wants it in that locality. There are various conjectures as to the intended purpose for which the land is required. One is that a speedway for the East Bay section is contemplated, and another that the government wants a mail aviation landing.

Land values are rising all over Richmond as the city grows. Acreage is hard to obtain—except as being held at low prices by progressive citizens, for factory use—and the day of the very low priced lot is passing.

There is an extensive movement in vacant lots just at present by local people that should buy now to get the advantage of the lowest prices Richmond may ever see and hold sites for their future homes.

When Richmond has a population of 50,000, and no one thinks that time is far away, every vacant lot now obtainable will have a value that will make the value of today appear very small.

Windsor Hotel on First Street, one of the largest in Richmond.

ACTIVE WORK ON HARBOR STARTS IN 30 DAYS

With the award last Wednesday by the government authorities at Washington of the contract for the improvement of Richmond's harbor to the United Dredging company of Oakland, there is a general feeling of optimism in this section.

The one great thing that had prevented Richmond from being a city at the present time of 40,000 instead of 20,000, has been lack of development of the water front.

Real estate is the foundation of all wealth, and more fortunes have been made from real estate than from all other sources combined.

Serpentine Dance Is Set for Nov. 18

A serpentine dance will be given on Friday evening November 18th at Masonic Hall by the Miramar Chapter, Daughters of the Eastern Star. The event is to be for Masonic members of the Eastern Star and friends. Chairman of the committee in charge of the affair is Mrs. C. R. Blake, and it is understood that Shaws Orchestra has been engaged and other plans completed to make it a very delightful occasion.

It is stated on the best of authority that the company which has the contract will be able to start active work within the next 30 days, and it is likely that it will be a year before the improvement is completed.

This contract takes in the deepening of the turning basin, and also adding greater depth to the outer and inner channels of the harbor.

The contract just let provides for an expenditure of over $140,000.

House Warming

Is Given by
The Kellegans.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kellegan, 225 Clarence Avenue gave a big house-warming party last night to celebrate the completion of the addition to their spacious home. They have added a whole floor, consisting of a very large living room, dining room and buffet kitchen. The rooms are paneled more than half way up with wood and fitted with built in fixtures. Glass paneled French Doors open from one room to the other. The spacious cupboards were already filled with good things to eat before the generous gifts of the guests were added. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Davis and family; Mr. and Mrs. George Kammerer and family; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Richardson; Mrs. Edna Warfield; Mrs. Hilda Jensen; Mr. and Mrs. Cook and family; Mrs. Dolores Bates; Mr. Jerry Bates; Mr. and Mrs. George Solich and family; Mr. and Mrs. Bottrou; Mr. and Mrs. George Elliott; Mr. and Mrs. J. Raffanelli; Mrs. Paul Dunlap, treasurer; Mes-

Receives Interesting Letter from Sister

Now touring Europe

Mrs. C. S. Violette, 50 Terrace Avenue, has received an interesting letter from her sister Mrs. H. A. Nesbitt of Santa Rosa, who is at present in Vienna with her daughter Leona. They went to Europe two years ago so that Miss Nesbitt could continue her music studies. A few months ago they went to Austria to get a special teacher and Mrs. Nesbitt reports terrible conditions there. Sugar, eggs, butter are not to be had and coal is only for the very rich. Mrs. Nesbitt has studied under the best masters and has reached the highest point possible. She will return to take up professional work.

Pollyanna Class

Elects New Officers

The Pollyanna class of the First M. E. church was entertained last evening by Mrs. S. J. Hooking at the parsonage on Nichol Avenue. The members of the Sunday School class spent a most enjoyable evening. #### Will Enforce Law Regard Picking of Red Berries

The new state law concerning the picking of Christmas berries is to be strictly enforced according to a warning sent out by Manager George S. Grant of the Touring Bureau of the California State Automobile Association.

Alameda, Contra Costa and San Mateo counties have already taken steps to assure enforcement and other counties are contemplating similar action.

At the last session of the Legislature, according to Grant a new section was added to the Penal Code which makes it unlawful and a misdemeanor to mutilate or destroy Christmas red berry trees growing on public or private land, unless in the case of private land the owner gives his consent.

News items always welcomed by the Record-Herald. Call Richmond 70 any time, day or night.

Automobile Men Will Banquet at Martin's Grill Next Wednesday Night

Over one hundred automobile dealers, garage men, tire dealers, and other members of the automobile trades will gather around the banquet tables at Martin's Grill, next Wednesday night, as the guests of the Contra Costa Automobile Trade Association, to hear Robert W. Martland, and other gifted speakers, on subjects of importance to all auto men.

Though the Contra Costa organization has been in existence for over two years this is the first time the meeting has been held in Richmond, and through the efforts of Secretary L. A. Sifard, the November meeting is being held here.

The association holds regular monthly meetings at which prominent speakers of the state are invited to speak for the enlightenment of the members. The business of the Association is to further co-operation among the dealers, and to further co-operation among the dealers, and to further the ideas of a closer relation between the garage men and the motoring public.

The membership has grown in the past two years from a mere handful of auto men to its present membership consisting of practically every dealer and garage man in the eastern end of the county.

Popularity Closed Cars Is Attested by Ray Cozzens

Ray Cozzens, the man who sells Fords in Emeryville, is optimistic to say the least. He has a shipment of closed cars coming and is preparing to push the enclosed car during the winter. We all know that the closed car is by far the most comfortable and with improvements made in the Ford of late, the closed cars are better than ever. Many refinements have been made by the factory which keeps the cars in better condition longer and makes them ride easier.

News items always welcomed by the Record-Herald. Call Richmond 70 any time, day or night.

Kratzer Tells of Many Comforts of Buick Closed Car

With the winter season approaching, interest centers in closed cars. Motorists who are planning upon investing in either a sedan or a coupe will find a most complete line of both four-cylinder and six-cylinder models displayed by C. C. Kratzer, Buick dealer here. There are six closed types of Buick sedans and coupes in the 1922 line, ranging from the luxurious seven passenger six-cylinder sedan to the cozy and comfortable riding four-cylinder coupe.

There are four six-cylinder models, the seven and five-passenger sedan and three passenger coupe, while in the four-cylinder there are two models, the five passenger sedan and the three-passenger coupe.

All of the closed models are designed and built by the Fisher Body Corporation, which is owned by the General Motors company, of which the Buick Motor company is a most important unit.

Fisher bodies are durable and comfortable. The sides are aluminum, while the tops are made of special composition to withstand extremes of heat and cold. The interior finish is in domestic whip cord and mohair plush.

In the instrument board there is a gasoline gauge, which enables the driver to constantly keep a check upon the amount of gasoline in the tank, so that it is not necessary to alight in inclement weather to find out just how much gasoline is left. Ventilation is controlled by adjustable windows. Other desirable features are an anti-glare sun shade, windshield cleaner, and adequate lighting facilities.

Frank Scholes Takes on the Agency for the Overland Auto

In order to properly take care of the trade of those who want a light car, Frank Scholes, the well known dealer of the popular Nash car at 1427 Macdonald avenue has taken on the agency for the Overland car.

There is a very large demand for a medium priced car, says Scholes, and after a very thorough investigation, I decided that the Overland was the best in the market, that in it a person was getting as much, if not more for his money than in light cars of other makes.

Scholes has been busy this week demonstrating the durability of the Overland, and showing just what can be done with it. For two days an Overland was placed in a vacant lot on Macdonald avenue between Fourteenth and Fifteenth, and it traveled around in a thirty foot circle, under high gear and without a driver.

Later the wonderful spring suspension of the auto was demonstrated by the driving up and down the avenue of what is termed the "mystery car". It attracted a great deal of attention.

Scholes says there is a great market in Richmond for this medium priced car, and he is in a position to take care of it. Mr. Scholes will be pleased to demonstrate the Overland at any time.

At the same time Mr. Scholes will handle the Nash Four and Sixes.

If you want the local news in ahead of any other paper, you must take the Record-Herald.

Federal Impetus Given Building Roads by States

Impetus to good roads development throughout the west is now assured through the signing of the Federal Aid Appropriation Bill, appropriating $75,000,000 by President Harding, according to C. C. Cottrell, manager of the Good Roads Bureau of the California State Automobile Association who led the successful fight for the measure in Washington.

Federal Aid is now limited to the improvement of 7 per cent of the road mileage of each state until that 7 per cent is entirely completed. Not more than three-sevenths of the road mileage for which Federal Aid is now available shall be roads of first, second or primary character, while not less than four-sevenths shall be roads connecting or correlating therewith. This last shall be known as secondary or inter-county highway. Not more than sixty per cent of the Federal Aid money shall be spent upon the inter-state system, and the balance upon the secondary or inter-county system.

All highways constructed in the primary system shall have a wearing surface of an adequate width, which shall not be less than 18 feet wide unless the Secretary of Agriculture instructs otherwise.

A graduated scale is provided for the public land states by which those states having unappropriated public lands exceeding 5 per cent of the total area in the state, the share of the United States shall be increased above the provisions fifty per cent of the total estimated cost thereof in addition to a percentage of such cost equal to one-half the percentage of unappropriated land in the State.

Not more than 2 1-2 of this Federal Aid money may be used by the Secretary of Agriculture for administering the act, and for carrying on necessary highway research work. An extension of two years is made for all past appropriations under previous Federal Aid Acts.

The Secretary of War is directed to transfer to the several states through the Secretary of Agriculture all war material and equipment which the War Department has on hand and which is not needed for their purposes, but which is suitable for highway improvement.

Change Policies About Dodge Car Is Set at Rest

Fred J. Haynes, president, and John Ballantyne, treasurer, the key executives of Dodge Brothers, have just entered into an iron-clad contract with that company covering a long period of years. The announcement is intended to set at rest at once and for all time thoughts that there is the slightest chance of a change in Dodge Brothers, either in ownership or management.

Ever since the passing of the founders, John F. and Horace E. Dodge, the future of the big business has been the subject of speculation. Its splendid standing in the commercial world the great record of its achievement and its golden future, with almost limitless possibilities, naturally made mouths water and tongues scatter rumors wherever wisecracks foregathered. But the stories and rumors, flattering as they were, became annoying to the owners of the business—the only ones who were not consulted in the proposed disposition of the Dodge Brothers' management grew weary of denying each crop of rumors as they periodically appeared. The action just taken by the board of directors, therefore, is in the nature of a final answer.

By it, it is assured that President Haynes goes right along being chief executive of the institution and that there is not, and never was, the slightest idea of disturbing the original organization selected by the founders of the business; and that has never functioned better than it is doing right now.

Dodge Brothers are producing 500 cars every working day and are behind on their orders.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Littering on the San Francisco water-front, John Rainey, newspaper reporter, is accosted by a blind man, a giant in size, who asks Rainey to lead him to the sailing school. Rainey, the blind man tells Rainey he is an old shipmate of Captain Simms of the Karluk and desires to make his last voyage. He asks Rainey to lead him aboard, and Rainey does so. The cabin they find Captain Simms and a man named Carlson. Simms recognizes the blind man, calling him Jim Lund, and accuses Simms of abandoning him, blind on an ice floe, and denounces him for what he calls his betrayal. Simms denies the charge, but Lund refuses to be pacified. He declares his intention of accompanying the Karluk on its expedition north, where it is going in quest of a gold field which Lund has discovered. Peggy, Simms' daughter, is aboard, and defends her father. Carlson, who is a physician, drugs Rainey.

CHAPTER II.—Awaking from his stupor, Rainey finds himself at sea. Carlson informs him he has been kidnapped because, having learned the object of the expedition, he might have divulged it and frustrated the plans of the voyagers. He offers Rainey a share of the gold and declares himself satisfied. Lund gives him a brief account of a former expedition of the Karluk, telling him he distrusts Carlson, and suggests a "partnership." Rainey to act as Lund's "eyes."

CHAPTER III.—Rainey, having a slight knowledge of seamanship, is made second mate of the vessel. Captain Simms is in exceedingly poor health, and the navigation of the ship is entirely in the hands of Doctor Carlson. At the latter's suggestion a shooting match is arranged between the "hunters" aboard, the expedition being ostensibly on a sealing expedition. Lund, although blind, demonstrates he can shoot "by sound." The hunters have a "shoot" and their revolvers, Carlson tells them there are no shells on board.

CHAPTER IV.—Watching the pursuit of a whale by his natural enemies, the vessel is mishandled and narrowly escapes disaster. In the confusion the ship's boy, Sandy, is swept overboard. Rainey rescues him, earning his gratitude, and incidentally the admiration of Peggy. The captain's illness seems about to have a fatal result.

CHAPTER V.—Lund mistrusts the hunters and urges Rainey to "pump" Sandy and gain a knowledge of their plans. Sandy tells him Carlson is creating a feeling that all on board, with the exception of Sandy and the Japanese cook, Tamada, are in league to keep a share of the gold, which was not the original plan. Rainey and Carlson quarrel over the matter. Carlson, who is an overbearing man, Lund is of opinion that Carlson is keeping the captain in bed and is plotting to secure the gold and incidentally Peggy for himself. Tamada, evidently a Japanese, is the only one far above the position of cook on such a vessel as the Karluk, is an unknown quantity.

CHAPTER VI.—An interview Rainey has with Tamada does not throw much light on the position of the Jap, though Rainey is inclined to believe he has no sinister intentions and would prefer to side with Lund and Rainey rather than with Carlson and the hunters. Lund is doubtful, but tells Rainey he has a trump card in his possession which will enable him to frustrate any sinister plans which Carlson may have made. They sight land and arrangements are made for a conference to decide on the sharing of the gold. Carlson, knowing that Lund would insist on Rainey's being present in an advisory capacity to the blind man, invites Rainey to attend.

CHAPTER VII.—It is arranged that Rainey is to see the skipper, who Carlson declares is in no condition to join the gathering. Rainey finds the captain seemingly at the point of death. Peggy confides to him that she distrusts Carlson and fears he is actually slowly killing her father. The conference begins with a general feeling of tension. Carlson makes the assertion that all on board, with the exception of Tamada and the boy Sandy, being equal, they should share alike. Lund denies the equality, and as the discoverer of the gold demands the chief share. After a bitter quarrel Lund throws off his glasses, announcing the recovery of his sight. Carlson draws his revolver, but Lund also has a revolver and shoots first. Carlson is killed.

CHAPTER VIII.—Investigating the condition of the skipper, they find Carlson has been administering morphine. The supply on board is exhausted, and they are unable to do anything, and the captain dies. Lund offers to take the girl back to Unalakleet, but she decides to go on.

CHAPTER IX.—The hunters attack Lund, who has taken full charge of the ship, and in a fierce fight, in which Rainey participates, the darkness descends. The girl watches the fight and Rainey discovers she has a revolver.

The suggestion held a foundation of conviction for Rainey. He had thought of the counsel. He had always sensed depths in Tamada's reserve. It looked plausible. Lund rose.

"I'll fix Tamada," he said. But the girl stopped him.

"You don't know that's true. Tamada has been wonderful to me. What do you intend to do with him?"

"I'll make up my mind between here and the galley," said Lund grimly. "This is my third time of tackling this island, and no Jap is going to stand between me and the gold, this trip. Why, even if he ain't blown on us, he'll give the whole thing away. If he didn't want to they'd make him come through if they laid their eyes on him. They've got more tricks than a Chinese mandarin to make a man talk. Stands to reason he'll tell 'em. If he can talk when they ain't here," he added ominously, standing halfway between the table and the door of the corridor, his hand opening and closing suggestively. "The crowd settle his hash if I didn't. They ain't fools. They know what's ahead of 'em in Japan. You, Rainey, get busy with that log. That gunboat'll have a boat alongside this ice inside of ninety minutes."

But Peggy Simms was between him and the door.

"You shan't do it," she said, her eyes hard as flint. If Lund's were like steel, "You don't know what he was to me when—when I was buried. Call him in and let him talk for hisself or—I'll tell the Japanese myself what we have come for!"

Lund stood staring at her, his face hard, his beard thrust out like a bush with the jut of his jaw. Still she faced him, resolute, barely up to his shoulders, slim, defiant, of his features crinkled into a grin.

"I believe you would," he said at last. "And I'd hate to fix you the way I would Tamada. But, mind you, if I don't get a definite promise out of him that rings true, I'll have to stow him somewhere, where they won't find him. And that won't be on board ship."

The girl's face softened.

"You said you played fair," she said with a sigh of relief. She stepped to the door, opened it, and called for Tamada. The Japanese appeared almost instantly. Lund closed the door behind him and looked at her.

"You know there's a patrol coming up, Tamada?" he asked. "A Jap patrol?"

"Yes."

"What do you intend to tell 'em if they come on board?"

"Nothing, if I can help it. I think I can. I am not friendly with Japanese government. It would be bad for me if they find me. One time I belong Progressive Party in Japan. I make much talk. Too much. The government say I am too progressive."

Rainey imagined he caught a glint of humor in Tamada's eyes as he made his clipped syllables.

"So, I leave my country. Suppose I go on steamer I think that government they stop me. I think even in California they may make trouble, if they find me. So I go sampan. Sometimes Japanese cross to California in sampan."

"That's right," said Rainey. He had handled more than one story of Japanese crews landing on some desolate portion of the coast to avoid immigration laws and steamer fares. Generally they were rounded up after their peevish, daring crossing of the Pacific. Tamada's story held, the elements of truth. Even Lund nodded in reserved admiration.

"Also I ship on Karluk as cook because of perhaps trouble if some one know me in San Francisco. I think much better if they do not see me. I have a plan. Also I want my share of gold. Suppose that gunboat find me, find out about gold, they will not give me reward. You do not know Japanese. They will put me in prison. It will be suggest to me, because I am of daimio blood."—Tamada drew himself up slightly as he claimed his nobility—"that I make heri-kari. That I do not wish. I am Progressive. I such rather cook on board Karluk and get my share of gold."

Lund surveyed him moodily, half convinced. The girl was all eager approval.

"What is your plan, Tamada?"

"We're lostn' time on that log," cut in Lund. "Git busy, Rainey. Look among Carlson's stuff. He may have kept one. Dope up one of 'em, an' burn the other. Now then, Tamada, dope out your scheme. It's got to be a good one."

Both Lund and the girl were laughing when Rainey came out into the main cabin again with the records. Tamada had disappeared.

"He's some fox," said Lund. "Miss Peggy, you better superintend the theatricals. It's got to be done right. Rainey, not to interrupt you, what do you know about enteric fever?"

Science Produces a Vitalizer Superior to Famous Gland Treatment—Macle Power of a Bank From Africa.
Have you lost your youth, vigor and "pep"? Does life seem dull and work a grind? Don't worry. Science has discovered a new vitalizer superior even to the much discussed "gland" and "monkey gland" treatment.
The principal ingredient is an extract from the bark of an African tree. It is said to be the most amazing invigorator ever discovered. Combined with it are other tonic and vitalizing elements of proved merit. In most cases, the compound produces marked improvement in a day or two, and in a short time the vitality is raised, the circulation improved and the glow of health is felt in every part.
The new vitalizer contains expensive chemicals, but manufacturing in enormous quantities has brought the cost within the reach of all. Furthermore, the laboratories producing this new vitalizer, which is called Re-Nu-Tabs, are so confident of its power that they offer it on the basis of "no results, no pay."
Any reader of this paper may test the new discovery without risk. Send no money, but just your name and address to the Re-Nu-Tabs Laboratories, 606 Gateway Station, Kansas City, Mo., and a full treatment of Re-Nu-Tabs will be mailed. Deposit $2 and postage with the postman on delivery. If not delighted by the results, at the end of a week, notify the laboratories and your money will be refunded in full. VIGOR OF YOUTH IN A NEW DISCOVERY
Science Produces a Vitalizer Superior to Famous Gland Treatment—Macle Power of a Bank From Africa.
Have you lost your youth, vigor and "pep"? Does life seem dull and work a grind? Don't worry. Science has discovered a new vitalizer superior even to the much discussed "gland" and "monkey gland" treatment.
The principal ingredient is an extract from the bark of an African tree. It is said to be the most amazing invigorator ever discovered. Combined with it are other tonic and vitalizing elements of proved merit. In most cases, the compound produces marked improvement in a day or two, and in a short time the vitality is raised, the circulation improved and the glow of health is felt in every part.
The new vitalizer contains expensive chemicals, but manufacturing in enormous quantities has brought the cost within the reach of all. Furthermore, the laboratories producing this new vitalizer, which is called Re-Nu-Tabs, are so confident of its power that they offer it on the basis of "no results, no pay."
Any reader of this paper may test the new discovery without risk. Send no money, but just your name and address to the Re-Nu-Tabs Laboratories, 606 Gateway Station, Kansas City, Mo., and a full treatment of Re-Nu-Tabs will be mailed. The 1922 DAVIS is Here

MERE pictures and words cannot describe adequately the remarkable new closed cars we are now offering. One must SEE them. They are creating a sensation wherever they appear. Suffice it is to say here that they bring new improvements, refinements and style. You are invited to view them. And to make comparisons.

Overland 4 Rides Well on ANY Road

Its three-point suspension Triplex springs are unquestionably the most important improvement in motor car riding qualities since the introduction of pneumatic tires.

They make riding easy. They shield the car from road shocks, and thus prolong its life and greatly reduce upkeep cost. They make possible light weight, permitting highest quality in every part without excessive cost. Light weight also assures great economy of fuel and tires.

Thus Overland 4 combines in a remarkable way comfort and luxury of heavy expensive cars with economy and convenience of light weight cars.

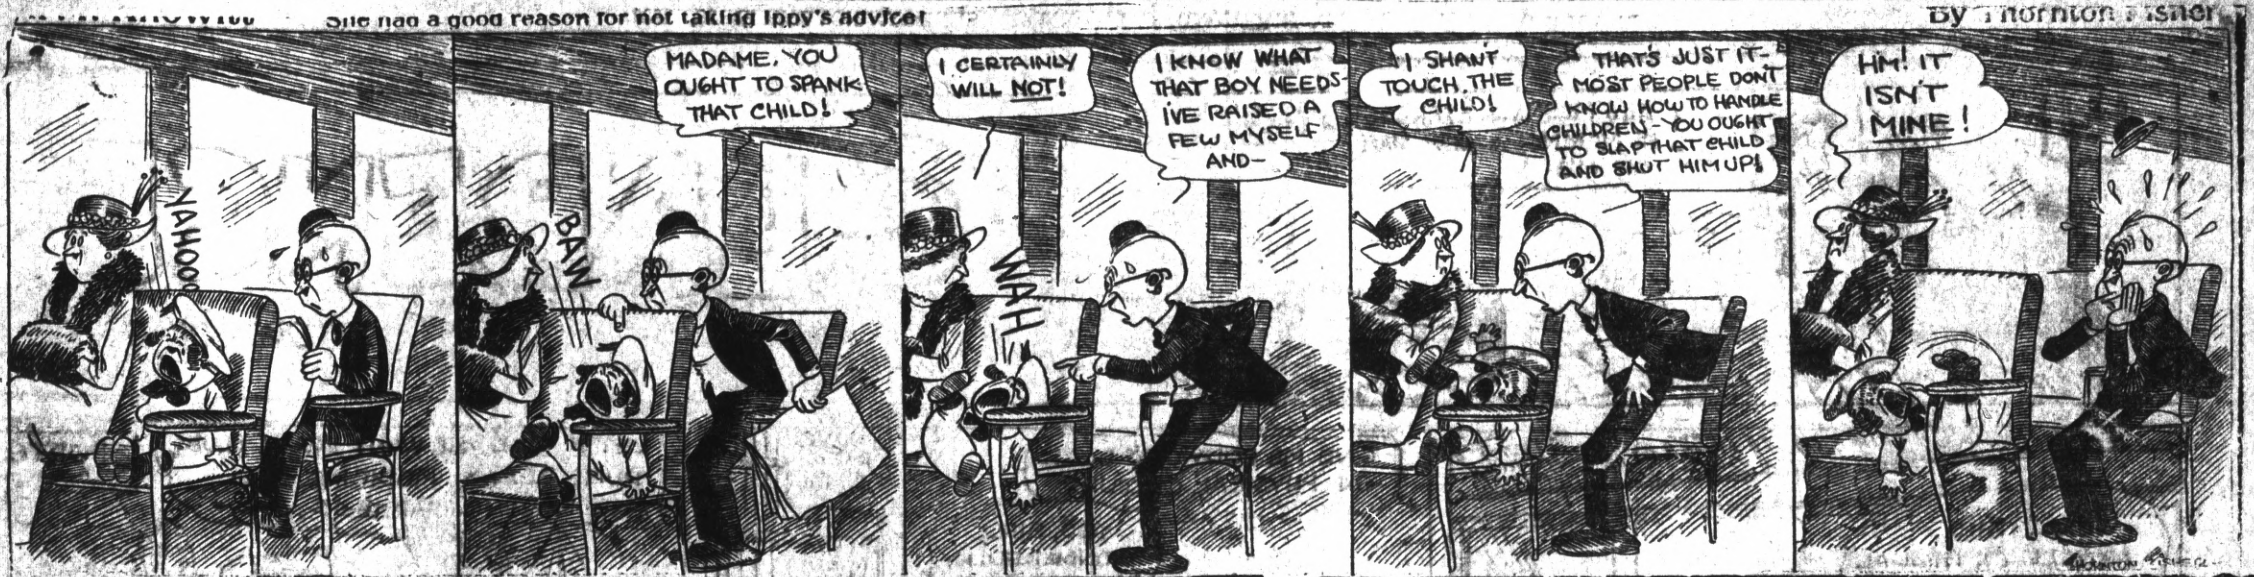

Its extraordinary advantages were proved by more than 250,000 miles of test under every extreme of climate, altitude, and road condition.

Oakland, August 20, 1921. "This is to certify that I suffered from a running sore on my foot for thirty years. At times, the pain was so severe that I could not stand. All those years I tried doctor's prescriptions, patent medicines and everything else I heard of without result. Finally I came down to Oakland and went to the FONG WAN HERB SPECIALISTS, who found the trouble due to the impurity of my blood. After drinking his herbs for three months, I was completely cured. This was a year ago, and my foot is in perfect condition. I am feeling splendid and give this letter in gratitude. (Signed) "MRS. A. M. STOKES, "1098 59th St., Oakland. "Permanent address, care G. P.
